- Building the powerful skill of Active Listening
- ✓ Building the powerful skill of Inquiring, to get to the root causes of issues
- ✓ Understanding a few, fairly common legal themes for new managers
- Recapping commitments; taking the learning back to the job

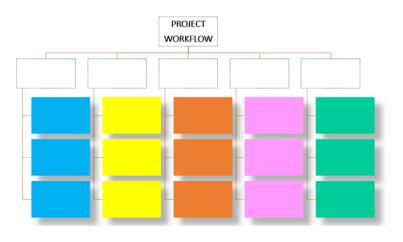

Project Management (Leading Teams)

Description

This course is designed to improve the participant's ability to lead teams by kicking off projects with clear roles and responsibilities, a team-built project plan, effective upward communication, and a vision for success. This interactive workshop provides a simulation for team members to learn how to visually create a project plan, using their team to identify and understand each other's milestones, deliverables, and specific tasks. Participants learn the value of clear and interactive planning, to avoid miscommunications and conflicts.

- Learn the root causes of poor teams, and poor team results
- Learn team project management techniques, including Work Breakout Structure
- Learn how to establish clear roles and responsibilities e.g. RACI charts
- Learn how to hold team members accountable for their tasks and for communicating to other team members
- Learn how to put together a clear project plan
- Learn how to create a Project Charter
- Learn to communicate effectively within the team, and upward to senior management

Active Listening

Description

This course is designed to increase the participant's listening skills, emphasizing active listening techniques. Participants will practice their listening techniques in pairs, and in larger groups.

Agenda

✓ Why active listening is a critical activity

- Listening is purposeful, requires control, and requires total focus and engagement
- Listening is the front end of decision making

✓ Steps in active listening - FOCUS

- o Free your mind
- o Observe the speaker
- o Comment on what you heard and encourage
- Uncover facts or feelings
- o Summarize and gain agreement

10 Keys to effective listening

 Find areas of interest, listen for content not delivery, "stop loadin' yer guns", listen for ideas, be a flexible note-taker, focus on listening, resist distractions (phones, email, etc), exercise your mind, keep your mind open, thought is faster than speech; repeat back what you heard until the speaker agrees

Active listening exercises

Business and Email Writing

Description

Being able to write in a clear and professional style is critical to effective leadership, and to one's career. This course will focus on improving the participant's ability to write, so that their readers will receive clear, concise, and effective messages. Through this training module, participants will reflect on their own areas to improve, and will create an individual approach to resolution.

Agenda

 - WIIFM (What's in it for me?)
 - Research your audience before making assumptions
 - Exercise: Write an email to 4 different types of people
- ✓ BAM!
 - Capture the reader's attention
 - Exercise with different emails Find the BAM!

✓ Structure

- o Inverted pyramid, Grouping information, polite openings, examples
- o Activity: In groups, move index cards around in the "right order"
- Oxygen: creating writing that is open, readable, and to the point
- The importance of grammar, spelling, and editing

Clarifying Roles and Responsibilities

Description

Perhaps no area can have such a positive impact as clarifying, and communicating, roles and responsibilities across a department, and even outside of that department. The collection of roles & responsibilities involves brainstorming, bucketing responsibilities into categories, prioritizing, and then determining who to communicate to. On occasion, communication of roles & responsibilities may include upper levels to gain alignment around expectations for specific roles.

This workshop is designed to motivate leaders' passion around clarifying roles and responsibilities, by understanding the business case for that effort. The workshop delves into conflict resolution, as we find that close to 85% of conflict in teams can be traced back to unclear expectations for positions.

- ✓ Why Assess Roles and Responsibilities
 - What are roles & responsibilities
 - What have leaders noticed when expectations are unclear? Clear?
- Real scenarios of conflicts with unclear roles as the root cause
- Following the TAFLAT process to clarify roles and responsibilities
- Bring this process back to your team(s); strengthening your team(s)

Meeting Management & Decision-Making

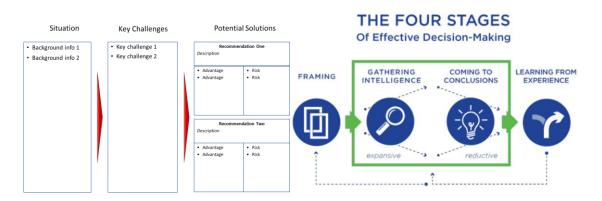

Description

This course does more than only teach the best practices of running meetings, it helps leaders consider how they would like all meetings in their company to be held. Often, leaders express that upwards of 50% of their meetings are not productive. This results in many leaders not having enough time in a day to complete their work. In turn, this results in leaders neglecting important elements, including their own functional work and even their own self-care, such as sleep, exercise, and time with their families.

Perhaps one of the easiest ways to return time to individuals is to help organizations run their meetings more effectively. To get to that place, leaders must agree on the purpose of meetings, before they agree to the basics of meeting management. Then, leaders can align around the ways to hold everyone accountable to implementing core meeting management principles.

In this workshop, we tackle team meetings, 1:1s, and the dreaded "status report meeting!" Leaders leave the workshop empowered with best practices, and committed to creating organizational norms around meetings.

Upward Communication

Thinking Strategically As a Department Leader

Description

Oftentimes, we hear from CEOs that they would like their leaders to "think more strategically" and to be able to communicate their strategies to their staff. In this workshop, we take leaders through our proprietary framework for viewing their work, transforming raw inputs and requirements into finished products and/or services. Leaders spend time discussing their departments as, essentially, small businesses, with employees (staff), customers (internal or external to the Company), and the value of continuous improvement in areas of their business. Participants present their work to each other, and leave the workshop not only with a completed template to communicate their department's work, but also with new knowledge about other departments.

Agenda

✓ Your Department as a Small Business

- What are small businesses?
- How is your department a small business?

Completion of Strategic Framework

- Explaining and discussing the strategic framework
- o Completing the framework for each department

✓ Gallery Walk Presenting the Strategic Frameworks
